New Prime Minister Of Congo Seen Negotiating For Unity

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Diplomatic sources disclosed Thursday night that the new prime minister named by Congo's President Joseph Kasavubu is negotiating with rival political leaders in an effort to form a broad government of national unity.

Informed sources said this information was contained in a report transmitted to the United Nations by its 11-nation Congo Conciliation Commission now in the troubled African country. The report was considered Thursday afternoon by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's Congo Advisory Committee.

The conciliation group was understood to have concluded that the new government of Joseph

Lilo might form a basis for a unity government acceptable to all if it were broadened to include groups such as the former supporters of slain ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba and Katanga leader Moïse Tshombe.

U.N. officials expressed hope that a solution might be in the making for the critical Congo situation. But they acknowledged that the conciliation group still had not been able to contact Lumumba's successor, Antoine Gizenga, who has set up his own government in Stanleyville.

The Soviet Union has recognized Gizenga as the Congo's "rightful" leader.

Long Day of Debate

The new developments came as the Security Council dragged through a long day of debate in which African countries lined up for and against the policies pursued in the Congo by Hammarskjöld.

Informed quarters said Hammarskjöld had urged his advisory committee to make public the conciliation group's report, but that a number of members had opposed him.

The group's conclusions included the following:

1. The "fundamental law" must be upheld as the Congo's temporary constitution.
2. Military operations now in progress in Katanga Province and elsewhere must be halted immediately to avert a civil war.
3. The Congolese national army must be insulated from politics and the United Nations must guarantee law and order throughout the country.

4. A summit meeting of Congolese leaders must be held outside the country, if necessary — to reach agreement on desired changes in the form of government. A federal system was suggested as the most suitable.
5. All political personalities now being detained should be released and a general amnesty should be decreed following the establishment of a national unity government.
6. Parliament should be reconvened without delay.
7. Effective measures should be taken by the United Nations to prevent all countries from sending military aid to any of the Congolese factions.

Some of the commission's recommendations were being put into a resolution being drafted by Liberia, Ceylon and the United Arab Republic with help from India, Guinea and Morocco.

George Padmore, the Liberian ambassador, talked the situation over at lunch with U.S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson.

Delegates from Guinea, India and Morocco conferred with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin in an effort to avoid a Soviet veto on a possible Congo peace plan.

In general, the resolution would urge the United Nations to take all measures, including use of force, to prevent occurrence of civil war in the Congo. It would demand also withdrawal of all Belgian and other foreign military personnel not under U.N. command, and call for an impartial investigation into Lumumba's death.

The resolution also would urge immediate reconvening of the Congo Parliament and reorganization of the Congo army.

There was no chance of approval of a Soviet resolution calling for the firing of Hammarskjöld, the scrapping of the entire U.N. Congo operation within a month's time, and sanctions against Belgium if its nationals do not quit the Congo.

But African nations sympathetic to Lumumba reiterated in the council debate itself that they felt Hammarskjöld should resign.

6 Workers Killed, 14 Hurt In Missile Plant Explosion

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP)—An unattended 35-ton crane toppled into an underground missile silo and exploded Thursday. At least six workmen were killed and 14 were injured. Two of the injured were not expected to survive.

The silo—a 172-foot-deep pit on the southeastern New Mexico plains—was to house one of the 12 intercontinental Atlas missiles which will be scattered around the city.

Men working on the concrete sides of the silo were brushed from the walls like flies when the huge steel crane took its plunge. D. L. Orendovick, chief engineer for the U. S. Corps of Engineers, said it appeared all the men who were in the hole had been removed.

The crane exploded when it hit bottom, spewing flaming fuel over the men. Injuries ranged from severe burns to cuts.

The crane was 15 feet high and carried a 75-foot boom.

Ambulances and helicopters from Roswell and Walker Air Force Base, 10 miles south of the missile site on U. S. Highway 70, rushed the injured to three hospitals.

State To Open New Shortway Bids In March

THE STATE Highways Department will open bids next month on the construction of two more sections of the Keystone Shortway. Both stretches are in Monroe County.

As previously announced in The Daily Record, bids on the first project — extending from west of Tannersville to a point 2.25 miles north — will be opened March 17.

The construction—known as Section 1002-3 — will include four bridges and four-lane divided highway with median varying from 65 to 345 feet.

The state will call for bids March 24 on Section 1002-4, which will carry the superhighway from the end of Section 1002-3 to its intersection with the Penn-Can Highway at Crescent Lake, a distance of slightly less than 2.5 miles.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts were awarded early this month for Sections 1002-1 and 1002-2 of the Shortway. The Marsolino Construction will build the section from the end of the Stroudsburgs Thruway at CLU Park to Bartonsville. No. 1 Contracting Co. received the contract to build the second stretch, between Bartonsville and Tannersville.

Actually, the four-lane highway will be a part of both the Shortway and the Penn-Can Expressway from Stroudsburg to Crescent Lake.

The state also calls for bids March 17 for widening and resurfacing 1.61 miles of a legislative route between Wind Gap and East Bangor.

No Monetary Estimate

Some damage was done to the concrete-lined silo, but no monetary estimate could be made.

"I saw the crane topple," said Earl D. Metton, an iron worker and welder, Metton was working in a gallery running from the missile silo to the concrete control house nearby.

"There were some men on the sides of the pit when the crane fell, and 14 or 15 in the hole. Another worker near me said he saw one man brushed off the side of the pit by the crane.

"The crane hit the bottom of the hole and blew up. There was lots of flame in the bottom of the hole."

Jobless Compensation Board Fund to Be Depleted

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state unemployment compensation fund will be temporarily depleted sometime in the next two months, but benefit payments will go on because of a $102 million federal loan made two years ago, a state official said Thursday.

The fund's balance now stands at $136 million, including the non-interest U.S. loan floated in April 1959 when the reserves also were at a low level.

The state will have to dip into the federal money for the first time because jobless benefit checks are being paid out at the rate of $9 million weekly.

Despite the bleak picture for the fund, which 10 years ago stood at $600 million, Paul Smith, director of unemployment compensation, said there is no cause for alarm that the program will collapse.

Under Serious Strain

"There is no question the fund is under serious strain but it is not going broke," he added.

Smith said $100 million in employer-paid unemployment taxes is due April 3. He said tax collections for the year should run to $270 million.

Smith said it would be hard to estimate how much in benefits would be paid this year, but he was hopeful outgo would not exceed income.

Outgo exceeded income in 1960 by some $12 million despite an increase in employer taxes enacted by the 1959 legislature.

Before the increase became effective all employers were paying a flat 2.7 per cent. The new law set a range of 1.6 to 4 per cent of turnover. Fewer layoffs meant a lower rate.

But in 1960 the average paid by all employers was 2.96 per cent.

Gunman Loses In $22,900 Bank Holdup

IRWIN, Pa. (AP)—A gunman fled with $22,900 Thursday from a small bank in Westmoreland County. But the getaway car bogged down on a snowy rural road and state police arrested a man fitting the bandit's description.

Officers picked up the man in a barn on a farm at Rilliton, some four miles from the looted First National Bank of Herminie.

Bernard C. Brown, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Pittsburgh, identified the man as Norman Cortez Gray Jr., 26, of Pittsburgh. Brown said Gray has a prison record.

The FBI agent said tracks in the snow led state police from the car, abandoned on a dirt road, to the barn. He added that a shopping bag containing an estimated $6,000 was recovered, and officers were searching for other money.

Capt. Paul A. Rittelmann of the state police said bank employees identified Gray, a Negro, as the holdup man in a lineup at the Greensburg State Police Barracks.

Rittelmann said no charges were filed immediately and added that Gray did not make a statement.

Gray's arrest came less than five hours after a robber, clutching a money-filled bag, sped away from the Herminie bank in a stolen auto. The bandit had herded seven bank employees into an unlocked vault before fleeing.

Agent Brown said the car used by the bandit was found stuck in deep snow at Rilliton. A search of the area led to Gray's arrest, Brown said.

The gunman struck about 8:30 a. m. before the bank opened for business.

Nationalist Plane Downed

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—The Burmese army said Thursday a four-engine supply plane belonging to Nationalist China was shot down Wednesday in Burmese territory about 30 miles from Rangoon. A Burma fighter plane crashed after being fired upon by the supply plane, a communiqué said.

The incident apparently took place over the "drop area" in which the Burmese believe Chinese Nationalists have been supplying holdouts who fled to northern Burma 12 years ago when Communists overran mainland China.

Fisher Improving

LONDON (AP)—The condition of Eddie Fisher, singer husband of film star Elizabeth Taylor, was described Thursday as very satisfactory at a hospital where he underwent an operation Wednesday for removal of his appendix.

Road, School Projects

Kennedy Prods Governors To Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Thursday prodded the nation's governors to act at once so a billion dollars in federal funds can be poured into road and school projects that would put more men to work.

"Use of these funds is now largely dependent on state and local action," Kennedy said in telegrams to the 50 state chiefs.

"I will appreciate your cooperation to speed these and other public programs to strengthen the economy in your area and throughout the nation."

This was a follow-through on Kennedy's announcement at his news conference Wednesday night that he has ordered quickened spending of $734 million on the federal highway program.

Freed $350 Million

In addition, Kennedy told the governors Thursday, he has freed $350 million for construction grants to be used mainly for schools in regions whose classrooms are crowded because they serve youngsters of federal employees, along with their normal pupil population. Some of these grants also would go for constructing hospitals and waste treatment plants.

The billion-plus in highway and school funds normally would have been distributed during the three months starting in April, the White House said.

Nigerians Attack Embassies

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The Belgian and U.S. embassies were attacked Thursday night by thousands of angry Nigerians in protest against the slaying of Patrice Lumumba.

A former East Stroudsburg resident, Jack Gelinis, is stationed in Lagos with the Mobil Oil Co. He and his wife left here last year and the accounts of their experiences have appeared regularly in The Daily Record.

The last word received by the newspaper told of Gelinis completing a long-cherished trip to Timbuktu (Tombouctou), which he described as "one of the three most inaccessible cities on the face of the globe. He left Lagos Jan. 27 and reached Timbuktu Feb. 4.

He is the son of Mrs. A. J. Gelinis, of 189 Analomink St., East Stroudsburg.

The attacks turned into general antiwhite rioting after police with tear gas frustrated repeated efforts to deposit a symbolic black coffin at the gate of the U.S. Embassy. The United States is blamed for Congo events in the propagandist - cast role of "imperialist" and for supporting U.N. Congo policies.

Cars driven by whites were overturned by demonstrators and dozens of whites were mauled, spot upon and stoned.

Every white pedestrian within sight of the swirling demonstrations was a target of stones.

A general warning went out to the white community to stay away from the city's center, where the neighboring U.S. and Belgian embassies are located.

A U.S. Embassy official said practically all ground-floor windows were broken in the U.S. Information Agency offices about half a mile away. He said neither building had been entered and no one was injured in them.

One report said an American was seriously injured in the up-setting of his car by an angry mob in downtown Lagos but the U.S. Embassy said it had no confirmation of such an incident.

The embassy said none of the staff of the embassy, the U.S. Information Agency or of the International Cooperation Administration had been injured. Anxious wives waited at home as men went to the embassy to discuss the situation with Ambassador Joseph Palmer.

Palmer managed to reach his office through the excited crowds by driving a small unrecognized car instead of in the official diplomatic car.

Long-Term Agreement

NEW YORK (AP)—A long-term agreement to supply about 20 million gallons of benzene-toluene mixture annually to the Dow Chemical Co., was announced Thursday by the Ohio Oil Co. of Findlay, Ohio.

Key facility involved will be the Detroit refinery of Aurora Gasoline Co., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ohio Oil.

President Of Congo

Sees Red Bloc Moving To Create Another Korea

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP) — President Moïse Tshombe declared Thursday the Communist bloc threatens to create a Korea - type civil war in the Congo. He expressed belief the West would avoid such a trap.

The chief of independence-minded Katanga Province also charged that a prime aim of the Communists in exploiting the death of ex-premier Patrice Lumumba is to get rid of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

While he often has quarreled with the U.N. official and has defied U.N. efforts to investigate Lumumba's death, Tshombe said

"Hammarskjöld has the least responsibility in this affair."

Katanga insists Lumumba was killed by villagers after escaping from a prison farm and Tshombe chided the West for falling "into the Communist bloc's trap by accepting the theory of a political assassination and by glorifying an individual who was no more than a common criminal."

Written Questions

Tshombe was replying to written questions submitted by four correspondents. One dealt with recognition by the Communist and some other nations of Antoine Gizenga's rebel regime in Stanley-ville, capital of Oriental Province north of Katanga.

"The decision of certain Communist bloc countries to recognize the Stanleyville government as the only legitimate government of the Congo promises to create a Korean situation," Tshombe said. "I think, however, the free world is theoretically capable of refusing to get involved on such a basis which would only profit the Communists."

Tshombe said the only legal government for all the territories of the former Belgian Congo is that of President Joseph Kasavubu.

He declined to elaborate. He steadfastly has maintained Katanga's independence of any central Congo government, Kasavubu's as well as the former one of Lumumba's.

Sources close to the president said, however, Tshombe fears direct Communist intervention in the Congo and is ready for much closer cooperation with Kasavubu as an ally.

Schedule Adopted For Science Fair

The schedule for the third annual Monroe County Science Fair was adopted last night in a meeting of the fair committee at The Daily Record office.

The fair, which will be held March 23 and 24 at the East Stroudsburg Armory, will bring together exhibitors from all of the county's high schools.

The students will compete for $270 in cash prizes, a minimum of two college scholarships and special awards in addition to medals and ribbons.

Senior high school students may enter exhibits in six divisions—biology, human biology, chemistry, engineering, physics and conservation.

Three divisions—space science, natural science and physical science—are reserved for junior high school students.

Students may place their exhibits in the Armory Wednesday up to 6 p.m., one hour before the panel of judges begins its work under the guidance of Dr. W. Grady Moore, head of the science department at East Stroudsburg State College.

The fair will be opened to the public Thursday, March 23, at a ribbon-cutting ceremony set for 4 p.m. Prizes and other awards will be presented at 7:30 p.m.

Search On For Lost Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP) — American scientists searched Thursday night for a "lost satellite" — one with polka dots on it — even as they claimed partial success for a major space mission.

Along this same line, House GOP Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana said some Kennedy administration spokesmen have made statements "downgrading our country so much that it could lead to a real inferiority complex."

Long-Term Agreement

NEW YORK (AP)—A long-term agreement to supply about 20 million gallons of benzene-toluene mixture annually to the Dow Chemical Co., was announced Thursday by the Ohio Oil Co. of Findlay, Ohio.

Key facility involved will be the Detroit refinery of Aurora Gasoline Co., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ohio Oil.

Don't Know Whether

Thus, scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration say that they don't know whether the sphere 1, actually went into orbit but lost its radio voice; 2, not only lost its voice but became deflated and is now orbiting somewhere aloft "like a rag"; or 3, plunged to a fiery death in the friction of the earth's atmosphere.

However, NASA scientists were heartened by two things:

1. They were able to confirm that the fourth stage of the Scout rocket — from which the inflatable sphere was ejected — went into orbit. However, it may take a couple of days to compute the orbit.
2. All evidence indicates that the Scout booster — dubbed the "poor man's rocket" because of its relatively low cost — performed its part of the job in excellent fashion.

39 Bodies Identified In Crash

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Just 38 of the 73 burned and shattered bodies recovered from the wreckage of Wednesday's plane disaster have been identified, airport sources said Thursday night.

Four physicians worked round the clock in efforts to identify the victims, who included the 18 members of the U. S. figure skating team headed for the world championships in Prague, and 31 other Americans.

Scraps of charred clothing or a twisted wedding ring often were the only clues the physicians had. The victims identified so far include 11 crew members and a 24-year-old Belgian farmer struck by wreckage. Names of passengers identified were not released.

The U. S. consulate said arrangements for returning the bodies of American victims to the United States still were incomplete.

In Davos, Switzerland, the International Skating Union announced the championships, scheduled to open Wednesday, had been canceled because of the disaster.

There has been no official report of what caused the plane, a Sabena Airlines Boeing 707 jet en route from New York, to crash.

IN CONCERT TONIGHT—This is the band of East Stroudsburg Area Joint Junior High School which will combine with choruses to present their annual concert at 8 p.m. today in the auditorium of the new high school. Totalling 106 members, it is under the direction of Robert Zellner.

Cancer Gift Money To Aid Area Patients

THE GIFT of money toward the purchase of a microscope equipped with a camera to examine and study specimens from cancer patients in Monroe County has been appropriated by the American Cancer Society of Monroe County. It was announced yesterday by the executive secretary, Mrs. Russell Baggot.

Funds for the purchase of the equipment which will be useful in both diagnosis and treatment of cancer came from money donated by local residents in the recent Cancer Crusade. It was approved by the Pennsylvania Division of the American Cancer Society.

The Monroe County General Hospital will pay half of the costs of the equipment as it has done for other projects in the past.

Another Project
Another recent project of the Cancer Society was the establishment of the vaginal cytology program in the county and the purchase of equipment making it possible to show microscopic sections on a screen for lectures to demonstrate cases to the medical staff meetings at the hospital.

Curtailment In Production

NEW YORK (AP)—A 15 per cent curtailment in its zinc metal production and postponement of a planned expansion of a lead smelter were announced Thursday by St. Joseph Lead Co.

The company had planned to increase capacity of the lead smelter from 110,000 tons to 150,000 tons a year.

Economic conditions and an over-supply of both zinc and lead in the United States market were blamed for the curtailments.

Mrs. Ziegenfuss Services Held

FUNERAL services were held yesterday at 2 p.m. in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home for Mrs. Rose Ziegenfuss, 82, of Del Ray Beach, Fla., and formerly of Stroudsburg.

Rev. Roger C. Stimson was the officiating clergyman.

Interment was in Laurelwood Cemetery, Stroudsburg.

Palbearers were Russel J. Swingle, Ora F. Bonser, Arlington Werkheiser, Harold E. Albert, Clarence K. Reaser and Robert J. Rockefeller.

West Scranton Boy Winner Of Dental Society's 'Smile'

PATRICK Tomco, 12-year-old son of Mrs. Marie Tomco, 1306 S. Main Ave., West Scranton, was chosen winner of the Scranton District Dental Society's "Smile Contest" at the final of the Chamber of Commerce, and will receive an all-expense paid trip to Disneyland, Calif., accompanied by one parent. Patrick is a seventh grade student at St. Aloysius Academy, Bryn Mawr.

Dr. Milton R. Sims, an Orthodontist from Australia, served as chairman of the panel of judges which included: Dr. Joseph O'Brien, past president, Lackawanna County Medical Society; Dr. David Wagner, Hazelton, past president of the Hazleton Dental Society; Dr. Konopka, past president of the Wilkes-Barre Dental Society; Ted Weiss, president of Commercial Association; Miss Judy Sammon, Scranton Times society editor, and Mrs. J. Harold Brislin, society editor of The Scrantonian and The Scranton Times. Dr. Walter Fordam Jr. was chairman of the examining committee and Dr. Frank Gardner was chairman of the contest.

Local Dentists

Local dentists who took an active part in the contest were: Dr. Sidney Cohen, chairman; Dr. Edmund Magann, co-chairman; Dr. Robert J. Arner; Dr. Elton Denney; Dr. Bruce Dunlop; Dr. Walter Fitzsimmons; Dr. Richard Krueger; Dr. James Meekes; and Dr. Thomas Mullen.

Thirty-nine children had been selected from the school dental examinations in Monroe County as having good teeth. They were: Keith Megargle, Lou Ann Little, Kathy Shafer, Paul Jones, Steve Schleiker, George Brosius, Bob Patinka, Sandra Searfoss, Patty Bush, Nancy Van Horn, Mary Jane Silles, Kevin Nevill, Penny Lewis, Monica Mayors, Bruce Marshall, Rose Mary Bleaukas, Angeline Caligiuri, Peggy Pratt, Roby Fenz, Ray Wallace, Linda Argot, Lloyd Argot, Jane Kirk, Gail Heller, John Farmer, Arthur Rosenthal, Lomut Wollgutt, Barbara Youn, Andrea Colovas, Harriet Horn, William Lockley, Jane Ellen Buser, Susan Fisher, Douglas Cramer, Tom Marsh, Charlotte Jacobs, and John Hamblin.

Nine children were chosen from this group of thirty-nine to represent Monroe County in competition with semi-finalists from the following counties: Lackawanna, Wayne, Monroe, Wyoming, and Susquehanna. They were: Sandra Searfoss, Susan Fisher, William Lockley, Bruce Marshall, George Brosius, Nancy Van Horn, Roby Fenz, Gail Heller, and Bob Patinka. There were some 300 children at this stage of the examination.

On Feb. 9th an examination was conducted in the Chamber of Commerce Building in Scranton where many of the children were disqualified, leaving twenty-eight final contestants. Four of these were from Monroe County. Then ten children were selected from this group and three of these were from Monroe County: Sandra Searfoss, Nancy Van Horn, and Roby Fenz. At this point the judges had all the children seated in front of them and rated them on Smile and personality. At no time did the judges know the contestants names or where they were from. Numbers were used instead of names. The judges also selected a winner from Monroe County. Her name is Nancy Van Horn and she is from East Stroudsburg.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Lanterman Funeral Home with Rev. James Mort officiating. Interment will be in St. Paul's Reformed Cemetery, East Stroudsburg.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Friday after 7 p.m.

Driver Education Study Planned

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Commonwealth yesterday named a special committee to study the quality as well as the extent of driver education programs in high schools.

Dr. Amos E. Neyhart, executive director of the governor's traffic safety council, said the committee will make recommendations for improving, expanding and financing driver education in the future.

Named to head the committee was Joseph Intorco, of Pennsylvania State University's institute of public safety.

NEW WAY TO DO IT — A rotary snow plow attached to huge crane clears heavy accumulation from warehouse canopies at Tobyhanna Signal Depot. Following record snowfall, several canopies collapsed, requiring expensive replacement. The machine, called a Sno-Go, scoops up snow and sends it out in a steady stream. Recently it was effectively used to douse a house fire in Tobyhanna. (U.S. Army Photo by John Mietlicki)

PLOWING UP A STORM—New $23,000 snow plow assigned to the Monroe County office of the State Highways Dept. got its test run yesterday, plowing the road up Big Pocono to the picnic area at top. It was the first time the department has been able to plow this highway with as much snow—estimated at four to five feet all the way—on it.

County To Grant Permission

MONROE County Commissioners will grant permission to Eldred Township School Board to place a question on the ballot providing the legal and that a petition is received in time to have the question entered on the ballot.

The question the school board wants on the ballot is to join the Pleasant Valley Joint Schools or to remain under the present arrangement with that jointure.

Atty. Leo Achterman, solicitor for the commissioners, said he was not sure it would be legal to place a question such as this before the public. But he would check into legal points and make a report to the commissioners.

In other business of the board H. Ray Saunders reported on the distribution of surplus food and the number of cards mailed to delinquent voters of the county.

Surplus food was given to 2,303 persons this month, which is an increase of 1,054 over last month. The commodities distributed this month were flour, cornmeal, milk, shortening, rice and butter.

Saunders reported that more than 900 cards have been mailed to the delinquent voters and that approximately 100 had been returned.

The commissioners also announced they would meet Monday in Courtroom One at 2 p.m. with the Pike commissioners and members of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service to discuss the proposed flood project on the Broadhead's Creek, north of Canadensis.

Two-Car Mishap In S-burg

Stroudsburg police reported a two-car accident yesterday at 7:55 a.m. at the corner of Second and Main Sts. with no injuries reported.

The drivers were identified by the police as George J. Collura, 19, of 519 Garibaldi St., Roseto, and Mary R. Newhart, 65, of 15 Elm St., East Stroudsburg.

Collura told police that he was traveling east on Main St. when Mrs. Newhart pulled out of Second St. in front of him. He applied his brakes but due to the icy road he slid into her.

Damage to his car was listed as left front fender, bumper, hood, grill, headlight and right front tire. Damage to the Newhart vehicle was rear bumper, trunk, right rear fender and frame.

Police will continue the investigation today.

Vacation Bureau Gets Reports

REPORTS on the annual Laurel Blossom Festival and a schedule of activities were received by directors of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau last night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The festival will open June 8 with a welcome program for the contestants for queen. On June 9, a progressive dinner will be given the candidates for queen with various resorts as hosts.

On June 10, there will be a luncheon and fashion show and the coronation ball. On June 11, the queen and her court will attend church and then watch motor boat races in the afternoon.

On June 12, the group will picnic on Big Pocono and on June 13, they will be guests of Fred Waring of Shawnee Inn and Country Club.

A report on the annual Hotel and Restaurant Show indicated two-thirds of the booths have already been sold. A sell-out is expected.

John M. Crandall recommended to the board that advertising and promotion accounts be consolidated so that the bureau may be eligible for matching funds from the state.

Pipher Selected Jaycees Top Man

STUART F. Pipher of Tannersville, president of the Central Labor Union of Monroe and Pike Counties, last night was named winner of the distinguished service award of the Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He will be formally presented with the award at the annual distinguished service award dinner of the group Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Pipher was selected by a panel of community leaders chosen by the Jaycees. His selection was announced by Benjamin Grudis, Jaycees president.

Pipher during the past year served as chairman of the clubs and organizations division of the Monroe County Community Chest, was chairman of the Tannersville Lions Big Pocono water project which has obtained a temporary charter for a proposed water company in the Tannersville area, worked with Dr. Alfred Sunberg in making labor education sessions available for interested persons, was a member of the team which had the highest amount of money collected for the YMCA membership drive and

3 Persons Are Fined $2,500

THREE persons charged with liquor law violations involving minors were fined a total of $2,500 in lieu of jail sentences yesterday by Judge Fred W. Davis in Monroe County Court.

Paul A. and Florence M. Greenzweig, Kunkletown, charged with five counts of sales to minors and one count of permitting minors to frequent licensed premises, were fined a total of $1,000 each and costs.

After consolidation of the separate counts, each defendant was fined $300 and costs on the first two charges and $400 and costs on the final count. Each was sentenced to six months in jail on each count, with the sentences to run concurrently, and were placed on parole upon payment of the fines and costs.

Ralph A. Stoddard, East Stroudsburg RD 1, who pleaded guilty to sales to minors, was fined $300 and costs in lieu of a three-month jail sentence. He is a former bartender at the Friendly Inn, 324 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Arthur D. Singer of the Main St. address, owner of the Friendly Inn, who was found guilty of sales to minors in a jury trial earlier this week, fled a motion through his attorney, James C. Scanlon, for a new trial.

11 to 23 Months

Gerard Exley, 26, of 191 Grove St., East Stroudsburg, who pleaded guilty to burglary of the Pocono Army and Navy Store, Stroudsburg, was sentenced to 11 to 23 months in jail from last Dec. 5 and fined $100 and costs.

James Robert Rode, 18, of 33 N. Second St., Stroudsburg, and Elwood Franklin Schreck, 18, of 413 Williams St., Pen Argyl, were sentenced to indefinite terms at the Pennsylvania Industrial School at Camp Hill. They were charged with burglaries at Henryville Lodge and the home of Bernard E. Birdick at Meisertown.

Judge Davis deferred sentencing on these defendants: Anthony M. Gebulis, 36, of 143 Green St., East Stroudsburg, found guilty earlier this week in jury trials on charges of assault and battery and passing worthless checks; Thomas Tomie, 19, Gilbert, who pleaded guilty to a charge of fornication and bastardy, and Allen Dotter, Northampton, who pleaded guilty to passing worthless checks.

Clyde Graham, St. Louis, Mo., was discharged from Monroe County Jail and placed on probation provided he pay the costs of prosecution within one month. He had been jailed on larceny charges.

Other Activities

He is a member of the board of directors of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and the community chest; vice president and executive board member of the board of governors of the CLU Social Club; member of the advisory board of the Senior Citizens Assn. of Monroe and Pike Counties; treasurer of Reeder's Methodist Church; past associate Sunday School superintendent of the church, an organizer of the senior citizens' group and past president of the Monroe and Pike Counties Building and Construction Trades Council.

Pipher is manager of Chase Wholesale Electric Co., 480 N. Eighth St., Stroudsburg. He was recommended for the award by the CLU Social Club.

The award is presented annually to an outstanding young man of the community for leadership and service to the community during the calendar year, in the words of the citation.

Persons 21 through 35 years of age are eligible for nomination.

MORA Makes Plans For Observance

PLANS for its annual "Patriotic Day" observance were discussed by the MORA Club at its meeting Wednesday in the YMCA.

Dewey Jacoby, program chairman, announced that Richard M. Franz will speak on George Washington. The observance will be held on Washington's Birthday at the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. offices on Phillips St.

Paul E. McBride, local manager of PP and L, will greet the club and Leisure Hour Club members, who will join the group.

A film on uranium mining and atomic energy was shown by John R. Wilson, YMCA secretary.

Charles Patterson of Prospect St., a new member, was introduced by James S. Bunnell, past president. It was announced Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Pittman were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary.

Dr. Martucci Is Installed As Medical Society Head

DR. JOHN Martucci, of Brodheadsville, was installed as president of the Monroe County Medical Society at a meeting Wednesday night at General Hospital.

Dr. Charlotte Jordan was installed as president-elect and Dr. Horace G. Butler as secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Martucci succeeds Dr. Morton S. Spinner in the presidency. During the business session, Dr. Meyer Halperin reported he had delivered a talk on artificial respiration at six different fire companies in the county. He said he is awaiting invitations to speak before other fire departments on the same subject and intends to expand the program to include first aid.

The program for county-wide tetanus toxoid immunization is progressing under the direction of Dr. Edward T. Horn. He explained the purpose of the program is two-fold: to immunize everyone in the county in the event of a national emergency, and to avoid the undesirable effects of serum reaction from tetanus antitoxin.

Dr. Paul Shiffer announced that the Future Physicians Club had held several meetings since its organization late in 1960 and listened to informal talks by a number of physicians. The club is sponsored by the Medical Society to interest more young people in entering the medical profession.

The society discussed an offer for remuneration for services in the tuberculin skin-testing program sponsored by the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society and voted to return all monies which they might receive to the society.

Appoints Committee

Dr. Martucci appointed a committee consisting of Dr. M. J. Leitner, Dr. R. F. Jones and Dr. Evan Reese to meet with District Attorney James R. Marsh in response to his request for a conference concerning the prosecution of drunken driving defendants.

The meeting closed with a talk by Dr. George Fisher, attending physician, Department of Medicine, Jefferson Medical College and Hospital, Philadelphia. He spoke on "Steroid Therapy," explaining how cortisone and its derivatives are used in the treatment of arthritis and other chronic inflammatory conditions and allergic diseases.

Hearing Postponed

U. S. JUDGE Frederick V. Follmer, postponed the hearing for argument in the case against Dr. Thomas Larkin, Cresco, until March 20.

Dr. Larkin was indicted in January on a charge of evasion of some $1,900 in Federal income taxes, covering the years of 1956, 1957 and 1958.

Consumer Pays

Our new agriculture secretary, Orville Freeman, said the other day that the government farm price support program hasn't cost consumers anything.

This he reasoned from the fact that farm prices haven't gone up as high as the general price level.

Well, let's see. The object of price supports is to raise prices above what the farmer could get from the consumer if there were no supports, isn't it? The Administration is in favor of supports, isn't it? Then it follows that the Administration believes that the program enables farmers to get bigger prices—from consumers.

Secretary Freeman's mistake probably lies in the fact that he has forgotten that prices can go down, as well as up. With many doctrinaire liberals, he sees grounds for self-congratulation when inflation proceeds at a trot instead of at a gallop. Thus, when farm commodities inch up in price, he assumes that this is the best break the consumer could expect or wish.

But farmers have made tremendous progress in efficiency, multiplying the yield through machinery, fertilizer and new methods. Industries which have made less spectacular strides have been able to reduce prices to consumers. Examples that come to mind range from air conditioners to ball point pens.

The farmer's success has been turned, by this program, into a nightmare of unfarmed acres, controls, massive surpluses and lost markets—backed up by swarms of enforcers with power to hustle him off to court, or seize his assets.

The consumer, in his role of taxpayer, pays for that, too.

Opinions Of Other Editors

A Higher Gas Tax

It is quite appropriate to address efforts to the diversion of money paid by motorists to governmental projects for other than their benefit. Only a fraction of the federal gas tax is earmarked exclusively for highway building and the remainder, along with other automotive taxes, is assigned to the general funds of the government and used to pay the general expenses of government.

Here in Pennsylvania, motorists may be less familiar than those of other states with that practice which is followed by the national government as well as most state governments. In Pennsylvania, money collected from taxes on motorists can be used for nothing but road building and the like directly associated with motoring.

To the extent that it is directed toward preventing such diversions, the effort of the petroleum industries is worthy of commendation.

But few motorists will argue that they are unwilling to pay current taxes on them if the whole of the revenue derived from that source were applied to road building.

Clearly, wherever one goes, there is a need for more highways, and more importantly, for better highways. The possibility of providing help to municipalities for streets and roads which they build and maintain is one warranting serious consideration.

Good roads are, at least, an embellishment of the pleasure one may derive from motoring and, at most, are an important factor in the livelihood of those who drive in connection with the transaction of their business.

Each of us should insist that loopholes of diversion be plugged. We do not, necessarily, expect lower taxes from that endeavor; we expect, rather, improved highways. We're willing to pay for the roads. But it is a bit galling that part of the taxes paid by motorists are being siphoned off for other uses of the national government and that of many states.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

What Folks Want To Know

Is politics the total of life?

We are too often told that the United States having become a world leader, the American people should become historians, international lawyers, exchange experts, sociologists and economists. The fact is that most people prefer to mind their own affairs, knowing a little of this and that, getting acquainted with Khrushchev but also with Marilyn Monroe and the First Lady, and wondering whether fights are fixed.

Let us put it another way. Last Sunday, many musicians were interested in Aaron Copland music as provided by Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic. Personally, I have not been a disciple of Copland, admitting quite freely that I do not always understand what he wants to say.

Leonard Bernstein, however, has a gift for teaching and as he explained his friend, Copland, to the young people who were listening at Carnegie Hall and the older people who were watching television, I had a new listen to Copland and a better understanding.

It is true that the time I spent on Copland might better have been spent reading Mao Tse-tung's attacks on Khrushchev, but there it is. I was diverted to Copland. Maybe, one should never look at Perry Mason because he diverts from the very serious problem of gold.

During the Summer, I live far away from wisdom and devote my days to reading principally those remote volumes which I forgot to look at earlier in life. Also I read a local newspaper which tells about new road repairs in the county, about who was born or died, of new visitors to various friends, etc.

Also, the world in which I am geographically situated during the Summer is musical. All kinds of music festivities occur. Also there is the dance. So I like to read the local newspaper which tells me what I want to know.

To me, all this is very important and it is equally important to my neighbors, all of whom read this newspaper not for great coverage of the doings of Khrushchev or the erudite editorial opinion of its editor, but because it satisfies a very human desire to know what is going on in the neighborhood.

The other day, I listened to an argument of the responsibility of editors and publishers to provide people with what they need to know. And there was much wisdom in the assumption that if the people in a free country are badly informed or inadequately informed about great matters, they will vote stupidly and elect unfortunate men to public office and the pressure of public opinion will be on the wrong side.

There is much truth in this, except that who is so absolutely sure about what anyone needs to know. For instance, I read about a missile or rocket or platform or something that the Russians shoot heavenward and wonder why the experts say that it will take us a year or so to catch up with that. So I ask myself a few questions:

1. Why should we catch up?

2. Why do we need to go to Venus?

3. If we get to Venus, what will we do about it?

4. How much new mathematics do I need to study to understand what it is all about?

I know some teen-agers who are wise about such matters and they can explain it perfectly. They know all about physics and astrophysics and why a teenager has a rough time with parents these days because they, the parents, are so dumb about things that really count.

So some parents try to keep up with their children by reading science fiction which is easier than reading Max Planck or Albert Einstein or even the pamphlets about a Sane Nuclear Policy.

Just to show off a little, I find history or pathological psychology very thrilling some days and other days, I like Agatha Christie.

But I know lots of people who, when they come home from work, like to look at a few comic strips, read the sports pages, look at a couple of pictures, read one or two favorite columns just to get sore — have a bottle of beer or Coke just before dinner, which they call supper.

Who is to say them, Nay? The obsession with the word, democracy, causes liberals to believe that not only are all men equal, but they are the same. What a horrible thought!

'What's It Going to Cost Me, Doc?'

The Pennsylvania Story

Pressure Groups

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Pressure groups lobbying vigorously for their own special interests are the bane of existence of lawmakers and the 1961 legislative session most certainly is proving to be anything but an exception! When you see a flushed, red-faced lawmaker emerging from a hearing or conference room here in Capitol Hill, chances are good he has just been nailed by one of these lobby groups — more often than not so-called "citizen" groups — demanding support for this or that proposal.

The pressure groups are peculiarities unto themselves — along with the influence they do and do not wield. Lawmakers whenever possible avoid public commitments one way or the other wherever possible to these "citizen" groups, understandingly hesitant over public reaction, either pro or con.

In most cases these pressure groups of do-gooders, favor-seekers and what-not have become the bane of existence not only of lawmakers but also of an administration itself. For the most part they look only to their special interest — and not to the overall picture which lawmakers must view. The pressure boys are oblivious to anything but their own particular goal or goals.

Yet lawmakers and an administration have little choice other than to sit by and gnash their teeth; they cannot come out and tell them to all go jump in the river — much as they might like to. As "constituents" they must listen.

For example, during the past gasoline tax increase hippie-dippie, lobbyists on both sides, pro and con, were as active as a horde of beavers on Capitol Hill, behind closed doors, in the hallways, just — the floor of the House and Senate, in downtown hostilities, and in the public prints. Suffice it to say the battle was vigorous.

As for "citizen" pressure groups, most unquestionably have fine, upstanding, commendable — although oftentimes somewhat impractical — ideals and goals, inconsistent at times perhaps with fiscal facts of life but nevertheless still most desirable.

For example, one organization among several has persistently concerned itself with Pennsylvania's mental health program, pointing out here and there how it feels Pennsylvania's mental health program should be run.

In "analyzing" the Lawrence Administration's projected $109,000,000 budget for the mental health program during the coming fiscal year (up nearly $20,000,000 from the present fiscal year) the organization in a statement the other day conceded the allocation would "permit some improvement" with the mental health program and place it "in position to take a slight step forward" — but noted that:

"It falls far short of providing the funds necessary for fully adequate staffing of the state program."

One lawmaker perhaps summed up the feeling of many of his colleagues when he commented somewhat irritably:

"Yes, yes — we have an obligation to take care of our mentally ill and do everything within reason for them, but good heavens we're concerned now more with doing something about those half-million nonmentally ill Pennsylvanians who are jobless!"

Incidentally, in referring to the "slight step forward" mental health budget, the organization, which has consistently called for more and more personnel for state mental institutions, happily points out that the new money will provide for an additional 558 persons to be hired for these institutions.

Yet — although the 1959 Legislature provided funds to employ 1200 additional personnel, by September 1960 there were still 555 positions vacant in the 17 state hospitals! In other words, even the old positions can't be filled — to say nothing of the proposed new 558.

Stroudsburg Teachers were to meet after school to vote on the pay proposal from the board of education.

Remember when an avalanche of snow blocked Route 611 in Delaware Water Gap. That was 1936 the year of the flood.

A coal truck loaded with 13 tons of coal smashed into the guard rail on Elvin Hill. The rails had just been replaced from another accident a day or two ago. The coal was thrown over the highway, the truck a total wreck and the driver escaped without a scratch.

Stroudsburg Fire Department announced the annual fireman's dance would be held in the Indian Queen Hotel this year.

The Republican state committee joined in to back the proposed parkway in the Pocono Mountains.

off The Record

It could be that the impetus has been set for future drives and campaigns in Monroe County.

The recent successful membership drive of the Monroe County YMCA could be the tipoff that future movements in this category might prove more profitable than those of the past few years.

Campaign leaders in some of our recent drives have had their troubles meeting their quotas. Many problems faced these officials in their attempts to go over the top. But for the most part the cry was "lack of money in the territory."

Apparently the last is not 100 per cent right. At least, the YMCA corps proved this a fallacy by going past the top by eight per cent.

However, there is more to the YMCA's success in this latest endeavor. Like all businesses who've attained the pinnacle, the "Y" campaign was built solidly behind a team effort.

From the lowest worker to the highest leader, "Y" leaders got the maximum effort to assure the success. It has to be that way, otherwise, like a car, if one cylinder is missing the performance of the entire automobile suffers.

Maybe it would be wise if the brass of other organizations took a page from the "Y" book and applied it to their own "campaign." We imagine the reading within the YMCA "brochure" would be well worthwhile.

As everyone knows, a drive of this type is only as good as the personnel leading it. Sometimes campaign heads are not blessed with the so-called energetic one. Thus his particular drive has its troubles.

Worthy causes deserve only the tops in working posters. How the "Y" mustered together such a group is their secret. But other units would be wise to eaves-drop and find out the formula for future use.

About Town

—By Gene Brown

If a pure love, untarnished by other passions, exists, it exists at the bottom of our hearts unknown even to ourselves. (Not by this writer.)

A pioneer citizen celebrating his 100th birthday was being interviewed by a local reporter.

"Pop," said the reporter, "I'll bet you've seen plenty of changes around these parts?"

"Yep," the old man agreed. "And I've been against every darn one of them."

(Behind the Scenes of Writing a Column.) We'll often leave a joke kicking around in the basket for weeks because it is either corny or jokeless or both, and then run short of material and use it only to find that it meets with appreciation. This kind of judgment gives columns a bumpy tempo.

Also, the world in which I am geographically situated during the Summer is musical. All kinds of music festivities occur. Also there is the dance. So I like to read the local newspaper which tells me what I want to know.

To me, all this is very important and it is equally important to my neighbors, all of whom read this newspaper not for great coverage of the doings of Khrushchev or the erudite editorial opinion of its editor, but because it satisfies a very human desire to know what is going on in the neighborhood.

The other day, I listened to an argument of the responsibility of editors and publishers to provide people with what they need to know. And there was much wisdom in the assumption that if the people in a free country are badly informed or inadequately informed about great matters, they will vote stupidly and elect unfortunate men to public office and the pressure of public opinion will be on the wrong side.

There is much truth in this, except that who is so absolutely sure about what anyone needs to know. For instance, I read about a missile or rocket or platform or something that the Russians shoot heavenward and wonder why the experts say that it will take us a year or so to catch up with that. So I ask myself a few questions:

1. Why should we catch up?

2. Why do we need to go to Venus?

3. If we get to Venus, what will we do about it?

4. How much new mathematics do I need to study to understand what it is all about?

I know some teen-agers who are wise about such matters and they can explain it perfectly. They know all about physics and astrophysics and why a teenager has a rough time with parents these days because they, the parents, are so dumb about things that really count.

So some parents try to keep up with their children by reading science fiction which is easier than reading Max Planck or Albert Einstein or even the pamphlets about a Sane Nuclear Policy.

Just to show off a little, I find history or pathological psychology very thrilling some days and other days, I like Agatha Christie.

But I know lots of people who, when they come home from work, like to look at a few comic strips, read the sports pages, look at a couple of pictures, read one or two favorite columns just to get sore — have a bottle of beer or Coke just before dinner, which they call supper.

Who is to say them, Nay? The obsession with the word, democracy, causes liberals to believe that not only are all men equal, but they are the same. What a horrible thought!

Stroudsburg Teachers were to meet after school to vote on the pay proposal from the board of education.

Remember when an avalanche of snow blocked Route 611 in Delaware Water Gap. That was 1936 the year of the flood.

A coal truck loaded with 13 tons of coal smashed into the guard rail on Elvin Hill. The rails had just been replaced from another accident a day or two ago. The coal was thrown over the highway, the truck a total wreck and the driver escaped without a scratch.

Stroudsburg Fire Department announced the annual fireman's dance would be held in the Indian Queen Hotel this year.

The Republican state committee joined in to back the proposed parkway in the Pocono Mountains.

off The Record

It could be that the impetus has been set for future drives and campaigns in Monroe County.

The recent successful membership drive of the Monroe County YMCA could be the tipoff that future movements in this category might prove more profitable than those of the past few years.

Campaign leaders in some of our recent drives have had their troubles meeting their quotas. Many problems faced these officials in their attempts to go over the top. But for the most part the cry was "lack of money in the territory."

Apparently the last is not 100 per cent right. At least, the YMCA corps proved this a fallacy by going past the top by eight per cent.

However, there is more to the YMCA's success in this latest endeavor. Like all businesses who've attained the pinnacle, the "Y" campaign was built solidly behind a team effort.

From the lowest worker to the highest leader, "Y" leaders got the maximum effort to assure the success. It has to be that way, otherwise, like a car, if one cylinder is missing the performance of the entire automobile suffers.

Maybe it would be wise if the brass of other organizations took a page from the "Y" book and applied it to their own "campaign." We imagine the reading within the YMCA "brochure" would be well worthwhile.

As everyone knows, a drive of this type is only as good as the personnel leading it. Sometimes campaign heads are not blessed with the so-called energetic one. Thus his particular drive has its troubles.

Worthy causes deserve only the tops in working posters. How the "Y" mustered together such a group is their secret. But other units would be wise to eaves-drop and find out the formula for future use.

About Town

—By Gene Brown

If a pure love, untarnished by other passions, exists, it exists at the bottom of our hearts unknown even to ourselves. (Not by this writer.)

A pioneer citizen celebrating his 100th birthday was being interviewed by a local reporter.

"Pop," said the reporter, "I'll bet you've seen plenty of changes around these parts?"

"Yep," the old man agreed. "And I've been against every darn one of them."

(Behind the Scenes of Writing a Column.) We'll often leave a joke kicking around in the basket for weeks because it is either corny or jokeless or both, and then run short of material and use it only to find that it meets with appreciation. This kind of judgment gives columns a bumpy tempo.

The Allen-Scott Report

Criticism Of Nixon

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — A high-placed Republican is doing some unusually frank talking about former Vice President Nixon and his prospects for a political comeback.

Victor Johnson, the veteran executive director of the Senate GOP Campaign Committee, is saying Nixon is being severely criticized by party leaders throughout the country, and that the great majority of them refuse to consider him their titular leader.

These harsh findings are based on an extensive "pulse-taking" tour during which Johnson talked to Republican leaders in 35 states. In most of them, he is telling Senate leaders, he found Nixon's prestige at a very low ebb with party chiefs.

On the other hand, they are evincing keen interest in the views, activities and plans of Senator Goldwater and Governor Rockefeller.

Also according to Johnson, National Chairman Thurston Morton is now a Rockefeller booster. This would be a significant switch, as the Kentuckian had been a strag Nixon backer.

Recently this column disclosed that Rockefeller is opposing backstage efforts to replace Morton with Ohio State Chairman Ray Bliss.

One of the few state chairmen who is on a salary and devotes full-time to this job, Bliss carried his state for the Nixon-Lodge ticket by more than 200,000 — one of the outstanding GOP victories. Vigorously supporting him for National Chairman is Charles White, Cleveland, head of Republic Steel and one of the party's biggest fund raisers.

Governor Rockefeller is letting it be known he is entirely content with Morton; sees no reason why he should be supplanted; and is determined to retain him as National Chairman as long as he wants to stay.

That may be quite a while as Morton is undecided about running for a second Senate term next year — when he admittedly faces a difficult race.

What he's saying — Johnson reported to the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, of which he has long been executive director, that everywhere he went on his country-wide trip he found state and local leaders "sore at Nixon."

"The consensus of opinion," says Johnson, "is that Nixon lost the election because he didn't conduct the right kind of campaign. Most of the advantages were on his side, and he should have won easily. But leaders claim he wouldn't take their advice, and in many instances they couldn't even get to him."

"Time and again I was bluntly told that Nixon is not considered the party's titular leader. Also his only chance for a comeback in 1964 is to be elected Governor of California next year, and this obviously confronts him with a tough dilemma."

"If he runs for Governor, he will have to promise to serve the full four-year term. And he'll have to give that assurance in a very convincing manner. Once he does, the door is wide open for Senator Goldwater, Governor Rockefeller and others to seek the 1964 nomination."

According to Johnson, Nixon is still of a divided mind on the gubernatorial quest.

Some state leaders told Johnson that in telephone talks with Nixon he indicated he would make no decision until later this year. They quoted Nixon as saying, "There's no need to rush. I'm going to take my time and see how things develop in California and nationally."

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

'Free' Health Insurance?

Dear Mr. Editor:

If, the Social Security system does not go bankrupt, we in the years ahead will pay handsomely for all this "free" health insurance which the present administration is trying to ram down the throats of congressmen.

The sponsors of this free health insurance bill, to be covered under Social Security, propose to start with a mere addition of one-quarter of one per cent to the Social Security tax already levied on each person who works.

If this levy follows the course that Social Security itself has followed, the rate will rise steadily, and so will the base on which it is levied.

The Social Security levy began in 1937 with a tax of two per cent, (one per cent from each, the employer and employee) on the first $3,000 of pay. It has risen steadily until it now stands at a full five per cent (half from the employee, half from the employer) on the first $4,800 of pay.

This is scheduled to go to six per cent on Jan. 1 and to a big grand daddy total of nine per cent by 1965. Add on to this a new levy for health care, also rising, plus income tax, and how much money will the taxpayer be allowed to spend for his family?

Most people today in old age can afford health insurance; this is being accomplished by the big strides by the health insurance companies in keeping rates to a minimum.

Wire or write your congressman to keep the government out of private business.

Just Between Us —

It's a Kimberlee violet and needs to be watered every other day—but I was right to warn the water — although it's not necessary to try it on your wrist like a baby's bottle. That's what Mrs. Paul Heller told me and she should know since she raised it from a pup—or maybe that's pip, or shoot, or something.

Anyway, Kenny Risley has his own system of propagating African violets that involves breadboxes and cellophane bags. And Ora Bonser has ten wide windowsills full of them.

If I were writing an Anne Haywood type column I'd advise all lonely people to get themselves a violet—seems to make as many friends as getting yourself a dog. Well, anyway, it was my one credential for speaking at the Garden Club yesterday afternoon—roses, geraniums and petunias — those were the flowers I could identify in Europe.

In the course of their reports, they get so many little gems of information that I don't think they need a program at all—I was fascinated for instance by the information that bees are declining in the modern garden because they don't like hybrids—they need old-fashioned flowers with pollen and stuff.

But they are fun to talk to—so responsive, in fact, that the trouble comes in stopping. I don't know anybody who's got more speech mileage out of one trip except the Wyckoffs on Russia and Jonas May on Hawaii.

Every once in a while I get conscience stricken, especially when I spy someone who's hearing me for the third time like Mrs. Knob—but then I think of poor Ruth Brown who in the course of showing the pictures that go with it has heard me no less than eight times—and think: well, if she can stand it, they can.

However, it really might pay you to send me somewhere else for some new material—how about Afghanistan? We already have had a correspondent in Timbuktu.

Life Of Dorcas Sets Pattern For Churchwomen

The life of Dorcas formed the basis of the program on "Women of the Bible" presented by Mrs. Robert Smith at the meeting of the United Lutheran Church Women of St. John's Lutheran Church this week at Biggs' Restaurant.

A woman of deep faith and many works, Dorcas served the poor in body and poor in spirit. Mrs. Smith pointed out.

Mrs. Charles Ruloff conducted the business meeting and announced that Mrs. Jean Barthold and Mrs. Warren Mikels had been named to the Christian service committee of the Eastern district.

Mrs. Robert Smith, chairman of Christian service committee of St. John's, reported on local service needs. The group decided to make dressings and gowns for Laurel Manor at their next regular meeting.

Mrs. Mabel Shook who represented the group at the meeting of the Monroe County Council of United Church Women reported on plans for the coming year and urged members to attend the World Day of Prayer Services today.

They accepted an invitation to meet with the ULCW of Grace Church in April.

Mrs. Herbert B. Omer, Mrs. Cecelia Hagerty and Mrs. Floyd Walker were welcomed as new members and Mrs. Evelyn Wilkins and Mrs. William Yost as guests.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Theresa Biggs, Mrs. Jesse James, Mrs. Ruth Steinhauer, Mrs. Jennie Meixell. Others attending were Miss Thelma Shaw, Mrs. Mabel Shook, Mrs. C. H. Ruloff, Mrs. Isabella Gudaitis, Mrs. Lewis Scheller, Mrs. Edward Yost, Miss Anna Fenne, Mrs. Barthold, Mrs. Ida Kunkle, Mrs. Thomas Knepp, Mrs. Anna Meixell, Mrs. Clara Weiss, Mrs. Bertha McConnell, Mrs. Mabel Sheeley, Mrs. Warren Mikels, Mrs. J. K. Shafer, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Ruth Marshall, and Mrs. Paul Halloway.

Miss Judith Pearson Bride In Harrisburg Wedding

Miss Judith Pearson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bevan Pearson of 2926 North Second St., East Stroudsburg, became the bride of Paul Wendling Schlough at 4 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 11, in the chapel of the Market Square Presbyterian Church, Harrisburg.

Mr. Schlough is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schlough, East Stroudsburg.

His bride is the niece of Dr. and Mrs. John L. Rumsey, Stroudsburg.

Dr. John David Tate performed the ceremony with Mrs. Henry as organist.

Miss Katherine Narvel Payne of Harrisburg was maid of honor and Thomas Ingraham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ingraham, East Stroudsburg, was best man.

Mrs. Schlough was graduated from Baldwin School, Bryn Mawr, and attended the University of Colorado in Boulder, Colorado.

Mr. Schlough, a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School, attended Penn State University and was graduated from East Stroudsburg State College.

He is now teaching in Patagonia, L.I., where they will make their home.

Baby Shower Surprises Mrs. Besecker

Tannersville—A surprise baby shower was held recently in honor of Mrs. Pat Besecker. Mrs. Besecker, expecting to attend a jewelry demonstration, was completely surprised when the guests arrived bearing baby gifts.

Held at the home of her mother, Mrs. Clarence Stettler, hostesses were Mrs. Shirley Stettler and Marge Besecker.

There were games and prizes. Refreshments of individual cupcakes decorated with pink booties were served from a table with a stork centerpiece.

Guests included Mrs. James Hardy, Mrs. Clarence Stettler, Mrs. Charles Besecker, Mrs. Elwood Stettler, Mrs. Laura Stettler, Mrs. Harry Nierling Sr., Mrs. Harry Nierling Jr., Mrs. Robert Bonser, Mrs. Charles Clurso, Mrs. Evan Huffsmith, Mrs. Tom Besecker, Miss Nancy Besecker, Miss Kathy Stettler, Miss Connie Hardy.

Also sending gifts were Bonnie Besecker, Mrs. Paul Barry, Mrs. Tom Bartleson, Mrs. James Barr, Mrs. Donald Detrick, Mrs. Martha Stettler, Miss Judy Lee, and Mrs. Genevieve Chamberlain.

Girl Scouts Entertain Valentines

Delaware Water Gap — The Girl Scouts turned the tables on the boys on Valentine's Day when each girl invited a boy as her guest at the party held at the firehouse this week.

In addition to refreshments of cup cakes and fruit punch, the group enjoyed dancing to juke box music. There were 12 girls serving as hostesses.

Garden Club Tours Gardens Of Europe; Studies Water, Billboards, Litter

The Monroe County Garden Club had a large attendance of members and guests at their meeting at the YMCA yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Horace Westbrook and Mrs. Ruth Brown, both of The Daily Record told of their trip through Europe last summer.

Mrs. Westbrook gave the commentary, stressing for the Garden Club, the gardens, flowers, crops and countryside. Mrs. Brown's pictures of the gardens at Warwick Castle and of the English countryside were of particular interest.

Corsages of African Violets for the president, Mrs. Edgar Van Why, and the secretary, Mrs. Edward C. Knob, were presented by Mrs. Paul Heller to set the Spring theme for the meeting, where the displays featured forced shrubs and house plants.

Indoor Spring
Mrs. Roger Acker displayed a Kalanchoe house plant in full bloom; Mrs. Elwood Grant, a Valentine arrangement with dried red coccob and a Valentine card which had belonged to her great grandmother; Mrs. Russell Harmon, a dried arrangement of wood roses, seed pods and berries in a palm spathe which had been sent to her from a friend in Hawaii.

Mrs. Frank Lanterman had forced maple branches in a Japanese arrangement; Mrs. Robert James a flower and fruit arrangement of permanent materials and Mrs. William Peacock a strawberry begonia.

Mrs. A. Starr Phelps, horticulture chairman, had on display evergreens which she had in early December and kept in water, which are now showing new growth and had a specimen of the Slipper Gloxinia.

Bees Are Conservatives
Mrs. A. H. Mathieson presented W. A. Burgess defense of the marigold as the national flower since it is entirely disease free. She also reported a trend toward re-establishing old fashioned flowers in the garden since hybrids do not have the pollen to attract bees.

The club also heard reports on matters of statewide interest: Water Resources, billboard control, and the litterbug campaign.

Water, Billboards, Litter
Mrs. Knob, conservative chairman, urged members to attend the March meeting when a program on water conservation will be presented by John J. Roddy, a director of the Water Resources Assn. of the Delaware River Basin.

Mrs. Russell E. Hamblin, roadides chairman, reported on a conference with Rep. Van D. Yetter regarding billboard legislation now before the House in Harrisburg which would ban billboards on Federal highways being built in Pennsylvania.

An effective anti-litter display, featuring banana peels, orange skins, candy wrappers, bottle caps and paper cups arranged on a background of purple velvet bearing the sign "Do Any of These Belong to You?" had been arranged by Mrs. Elwood Grant and Mrs. J. Harold Lanterman.

And Hostesses

Members of the club have also been invited to serve as hostesses in both state and national projects. The club has been asked to provide hostesses for the Bowman's Hill Wild flower Preserve in April and May, and for the Golden Awards Banquet of the National Council of State Garden Clubs at the Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia on May 17.

Mrs. William Peacock, cheer chairman, reported that Miss Lucile Girard was in the hospital; Mrs. Nelson Frantz and Mrs. William Vanderster were ill, and that Mrs. Henry Koehler was confined to her home from a fall last Sunday.

Mrs. Robert James was introduced as a new member. Tea was served with Mrs. J. Harold Lanterman, Mrs. William Spangler, Mrs. John Gregory, Mrs. Bernard Conway and Mrs. Harold Rinker in charge. Mrs. Gregory had a display of old-fashioned Valentines.

Music Of Herbert Stars In Music Club American Music

"Victor Herbert, the Man and His Music" took place this year in the Music Study Club's annual Parade of American Composers at a meeting held at Zion United Church of Christ, Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, chairman, introduced the program, with Mrs. Albert Yutz summarizing the early years of his life; Miss Helen Smith, his later years; and Mrs. Dunn describing his music, quoting from music critics of his time.

Some of his favorite melodies were presented. Mrs. Yutz sang four numbers: "Absinthe Fraïque" from "It Happened in Norway"; "I'm Falling in Love with Someone" and "Italian Street Song" from "Naughty Marietta"; and "Kiss Me Again" and "The Irish Will Have a Great Day Tonight." Duo piano accompaniment was furnished by Miss Ethelynn Werkheiser and Miss Helen Jolisk.

A vocal trio composed of Mrs. Yutz, soprano; Miss Smith, second soprano; and Mrs. Dunn, alto, sang "I Can't Do The Sum" from "Babes in Toyland," also with duo piano accompaniment.

Miss Werkheiser and Miss Jolisk also presented some of his music in duo piano numbers:

The Wyckoff Shopper
"the friendly store"
A.B. Wyckoff
STRONDSBURG, PA.

It always delights me to see a flock of men gathered around the Valentine rack in our Wyckoff store, and you can almost bet that their arrival will be a last-minute affair. They come in wearing a variety of expressions from "resigned" through "sheepish," and manage to get here just under the gong.

One gentleman who seemed more annoyed than romantic, haled me as I walked past the greeting card rack Tuesday afternoon and proclaimed, "You're responsible for this. For the past couple of weeks my wife has made me listen to some of your radio programs and read your columns." And, of course, she very probably was shrewd enough to attract his attention to those in which I warned the men about it being cold in a doghouse this time of year!

I recounted the episode on Wednesday morning's radio program, because it amused me in a sort of a gloating way . . . and not long after received a telephone call from a woman who said, "I'm sure it was my husband you spoke about this morning. He said he'd made some such remark to you yesterday, and I'm very much embarrassed. I'm grateful for my Valentine AND my box of candy, however. I never received one from my husband before."

From now on, just call me "Cupid" . . . and where would you like me to aim my arrows next?

This afternoon the churchwomen of this area will observe the World Day of Prayer with a service at St. John's Lutheran Church, North Ninth street, beginning at two o'clock. This service marks the 75th anniversary of the observance which encircles the globe today with prayers for peace and Christian love.

According to Mrs. C. H. Ruloff, wife of the Lutheran pastor, the women of the Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap will present a history of the origin of the World Day of Prayer entitled, "With Tomorrow Yet to Come." Mrs. Richard Lindroth will direct and Mrs. Joseph Barnes will be soloist.

If it is possible for any of the women who read this column to participate, they are invited, and quietly urged, to do so. If there is one thing this world needs today it is prayer and Christian action . . . and there is something rather thrilling about services being held around the globe at all hours, so that there is a constant chain of devotion and appeal. Once again . . . the time is today . . . Friday . . . at two o'clock. Why not dig yourself out of the winter doldrums and snowdrifts, and attend?

Whether you're a long stemmed beauty or a short stemmed cutie, you'll probably approve of the latest fashion whim in jewelry. This whim is for a flower garden of "Long Stemmed Beauties," so named by their manufacturer, Albert Weiss. The ornaments are in the form of pins representing flowers, with very long stems. The really zingy way to wear them, I'm told, is in pairs, with stems criss-crossed perhaps, or standing upright on the shoulder. The last is a rather tricky notion, but would interfere with wearing a stole, coat, or even necking! This being so, I dare say the majority of gals will wear them somewhat lower.

One that I admire is a black-eyed Susan, with a big piece of set surrounded by yellow petals, and green leaves shimmering from the stem. It is 5.00. Another that looks stunning on black is the firewort (at least I think that's its name) in blazing orange-red stones, with green leaves, and a textured gold stem. It is 15.00. Still another is tulip-shaped and has an enormous baroque pearl at the center. This, if memory serves, is 12.50. Others are 2.00 . . . but the stems are shorter, although the stones in all are beautifully cut and clear—something the Albert Weiss line can always boast.

And so, Mary, Madge, and Mabel: how does your garden grow?

Why Not A How To Study Course?

By Leslie J. Nason, Ed. D., with Harry Karns

THIS is the last lap of the course. First, a few words about how to get better grades on problem-solving exams. And then a proposal for the future.

In problem-solving tests such as those given in math, physics, and similar courses, you should keep three things in mind.

1. Your first concern is that of picking the right process for working the problem. Read carefully. Be sure you understand the conditions of the problem and what kind of answer is wanted. Think the problem out in words. And keep in mind some of the things we said in a previous chapter about how to solve problems. 2. Your second concern is that of method. While you work on the main process of the problem, the arithmetic work takes place on the fringe of your thinking space. The harder you concentrate on method, the more errors you are likely to make in the arithmetic.

3. Concern number three, then, is that of eliminating these careless errors. Obviously, doing a problem-solving test involves more than merely knowing how and when to use your various processes of solution.

Work swiftly. Occupy your thinking space at all times. Go through the test twice.

First, concentrate on method and careful organization of your work on paper.

The second time, put your full attention to checking the arithmetic and your use of algebraic signs.

Here again, we must repeat: You can eliminate mistakes with greater ease if ALL the steps of the problems are arranged NEATLY on the paper.

It's All "Obvious"

Alex got low grades on math tests because he was smart. He was able to work out two or three steps of a solution in his mind. Only about one-third of the actual steps appeared on the paper. His answers were often wrong because of errors in his numbers. We suggested he try writing out every single step on the paper. He did these simple things and raised his math grade from "D" to "A."

Why was this possible? When all the steps were before him on the paper, he was able in his checking to concentrate entirely on arithmetic and signs instead of worrying about re-creating the missing portions.

As we look back over what we have said in this and other chapters, it occurs to us that we may be charged with repeated statements of the obvious.

Why, of course it is helpful to budget your time on tests!

Of course it is wise to concentrate on one question at a time!

Of course it makes sense to make a neat paper, to write out all the steps so they can be double-checked!

Of course. And it is precisely the simple, obvious principle which students neglect under the misguided impression that it isn't important.

For the Future

So now our proposal for the future:

We suggest adding to the curricula of grade schools, high schools, and colleges a different sort of course.

Today, the student studies reading, writing, arithmetic, biology, chemistry, French, and a variety of other subjects. He studies subject matter. If he intends to be a teacher, he studies courses that pretend to tell him how to teach.

But nowhere along the line does he take a course devoted entirely to HOW TO STUDY, HOW TO LEARN!

Such a course, it seems to us, is basic. It is to the student what a compass is to the explorer.

Our experience in the private tutoring of failing students convinces us that "How to Study" classes would eliminate much of the heartache, frustration, and defeat in school and in life itself.

After all, what we are talking about is a way of making human beings happier. Success in education can make a person happier. It can improve him emotionally and spiritually. It can improve his opinion of himself, his economic status in society, his value to his family and his country.

The journey into learning is a great adventure. It can be a successful one for most boys and girls and men and women if they are first given a sense of direction.

To help give that has been the aim of what we have written here. Bon voyage!

Effect Of Rate Changes

Q. If the Federal Reserve Board either lowers or raises the "discount rate," what is the effect on the bond market—especially on new bond issues?

A. Actually, the Federal Reserve Board does not raise or lower the discount rate. That rate is set by the Federal Reserve bank in each of the 12 Federal Reserve Districts. However, the FR must approve any change in the discount rate by any of the 12 Federal Reserve District Banks.

That rate is the interest rate charged to member banks of the Federal Reserve when those commercial banks borrow from a Federal Reserve District Bank. The discount rate is the key interest rate in our economy. Almost all other interest rates usually revolve around that rate.

When the discount rate goes up, all other interest rates go up—raising the cost of borrowing. This naturally means that interest rates on new bond issues will go up. And it means that the market prices of bonds already outstanding in the hands of the public, will go down.

And, as it should be easy to understand, the opposite happens when the discount rate is lowered.

Q. You wrote that Series E, U. S. Savings Bonds, continue to accumulate interest even after they mature. A bank clerk informs me that interest on E bonds stops at the maturity date and that the bonds must be cashed when they mature. Are you saying that the bank clerk is wrong?

A. That's a mild word for it. Dopey fits him better. Next time you see him, ask him why he passes out such absolutely inaccurate "information."

7th Day Adventists Plan To Send 20 To Conference

ELDER MILTON T. Reiher, pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist Church announced that 20 youths from eastern Pennsylvania will be chosen to represent the church at the Bible Conference, to be held in Washington, D. C. on March 3 to 5.

It is expected that one or more delegates will be selected from the Stroudsburg-Easton district.

Reiher said the conference will be keyed to the needs of the youth and young married couples between the ages of 16 and 30 and that each delegate will be able to participate in two four-hour Bible studies or discussions on chosen doctrines or subjects.

Lecture Schedule
Pastor Reiher said one of the highlights will be a lecture, "What is God," to be given by his former teacher of theology, Dr. W. G. C. Murdock who heads the department of Systematic Theology at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich.

Delegates from seven states and the District of Columbia, which comprise the Columbia Union Conference of Adventists, will be on hand for the conference.

The East Pennsylvania delegates will be led by Elder John N. Morgan, from Reading.

Democrats Map Patronage Plans

HARRISBURG (AP)—Top Democratic leaders met with Gov. Lawrence here yesterday to set up a system for clearing federal patronage for Pennsylvania.

"We just wanted to establish a procedure on these matters," said U. S. Rep. William J. Green Jr., Philadelphia city chairman.

Asked how many federal jobs would be available for Pennsylvanians, Green said: "I really don't know."

Army Signal Corps Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—The Minneapolis-Moline Co.'s Los Angeles-based electronics subsidiary, Molectronics Corp., Thursday announced receipt of a $2,450,000 contract from the U. S. Army Signal Corps.

The contract calls for production of lightweight frequency switch carrier telegraph systems for delivery in 1961 and 1962, a spokesman said. Manufacture of the equipment is planned for plants in the Minneapolis area and in Los Angeles.

there is absolutely no reason for your waistline to grow bigger as you grow older!

your calories now to keep your waistline young!

The "middle-age spread" need not strike if you PLAN for it. As you grow older, your energy requirements go down—unless your calorie intake goes down also, then you're stuck with a growing waistline.

How to keep your calorie intake down and stay comfortable is the big problem for millions of American adults. PLAN is the long-awaited answer—a delicious liquid dietary food that contains all the essential nutrients for an adult for one day, with 900 measured calories. With PLAN, you can stay trim and enjoy it! Just drink a glass of PLAN instead of eating a heavy meal. You're getting a meal's worth of nutrients but far less than a meal's worth of calories. Do this whenever you can and whenever it's convenient. Perhaps one meal of PLAN every other day is enough for you to keep your waistline in shape. Maybe you'd be better off to PLAN two meals a day for the first several weeks in order to slim down where you want to be. You establish the correct level—now that PLAN is available, you'll love getting thin! PLAN is available in the dairy case at your grocery store or delivered to your home by your dairy. It comes in two delicious flavors—vanilla and chocolate. It has keeping qualities like good fresh milk. PLAN now to avoid middle-age spread! Start today!

PUC Approves Shortride Boost

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission yesterday approved the Wilkes-Barre Transit Corp.'s proposed 10-cent, short-ride fare on a 90-day experimental basis.

It would affect rides between the Public Square in downtown Wilkes-Barre and the Market-Hancock streets area. The company may put the plan into effect on one day's notice. The experiment was approved to determine whether reduced fares can increase patronage. Regular fares for rides in the utility's first two zones are 25 cents.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day if it is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 6. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
